

MOVIE AUTHOR AND ASSOCIATES HELD ON FRAUD CHARGES

Eliot Norton, Harvard Man, and Anthony Drexel Indicted by New York Jury.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Indictments charging Eliot Norton, lawyer and author; Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., of Philadelphia; Louis R. Jennings and Harry Brodsky with selling unauthorized stock of the Standard Film Industries Inc., were returned by the grand jury Thursday. It became known yesterday when Norton was arrested and held in $5,000 bail. He pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Norton, son of the late Charles Eliot Norton, once professor at Harvard University, was named in the indictment as secretary and attorney of the company. Mr. Drexel was designated as vice president, Jennings as president and Brodsky as general manager.

The indictments followed numerous complaints from people of small means who claimed they had been induced to invest in the corporation on promises of large returns, but had received no dividends.

Mr. Drexel is said to be in Europe. Jennings is in Chicago or St. Louis, and Brodsky at Rotunda Beach, Cal.

Fountain of Youth.

BOSTON, July 2.—Boston Commons' famous old "swimming hole," better known as the "Frog Pond," is again open to the city's youngsters for paddling purposes. A new concrete bottom has been installed, transforming the pond into a basin.

DROWNS IN ATTEMPT TO SAVE WIFE'S LIFE

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., July 2.—Charles A. Wykes, of No. 35 Clarkson avenue, Brooklyn, was drowned here Monday in the Wallkill River in an attempt to save the life of his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Wykes had gone to the farm of Frank M. Crisp, whose wife is a sister of Mrs. Wykes, for a visit over the Fourth. During the afternoon they went swimming, taking the two Crisp children, who are five and fourteen years old, to the river.

Mrs. Wykes stepped into a deep hole and called for help. Mr. Wykes started to swim toward her when he suddenly sank. His wife reached the bank and sent for aid. Friends at once searched for the body. It was found after three hours at the bottom of a deep hole which had been scoured out by the current.

Mr. Wykes was known in Brooklyn as a strong swimmer and an expert in the water.

U. S. COURT OPENS AT ALEXANDRIA AS 13 ARE INDICTED

Judge Groner Presides for First Time—Both Grand and Petit Juries Called.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 2.—The United States court opened yesterday afternoon for both a grand and petit jury term. Judge D. Lawrence Groner, of the Eastern district of Virginia, presided for the first time in this city. Indictments were found in the following cases, presented by District Attorney W. R. Kear: Edward Doyle, Dallas, Tex., and John Oldham, assault on Government reservation; Maurice M. Weinher, larceny from United States mails while in postal service; William Bing, embezzlement property of the United States; Edward J. Hess, breaking into postoffice; Carl Mander and Malcolm O. Deaton, larceny on interstate shipment of freight; William J. Sullivan, robbery on Government reservation; Harry J. McDonald, two indictments for robbery on Government reservation; L. Russell, mailing improper matter; Leslie E. Payne, larceny from the United States mails while in the postal service; Joseph Goodlow, assault on Government reservation.

Lieut. C. M. Shepperson, of the Alexandria Light Infantry, has been notified by Governor Davis of his appointment to the post of captain of that company. He has been in charge of the company since Capt. Duffey was taken ill many months ago.

The Alexandria Playgrounds Association today formally opened its new playgrounds, on the lot on Queen street between Washington and Columbus streets, loaned them by the Society of Friends. The new grounds are much larger than those formerly used and give ample room for the children to enjoy themselves. The grounds will be under the charge of Miss Evelyn Howard.

The baseball game between teams of the Methodist Episcopal Church South and of Trinity Methodist Church will begin on Baggett's field this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Sarepta Lodge of Odd Fellows will hold a meeting at Odd Fellows Hall this evening. At this meeting District Deputy Grand Master J. F. Haverly, and a delegation from Falls Church lodge, will install the newly elected officers.

The Old Dominion Boat Club this evening will hold a "Welcome Home" meeting at their boat house on the river front. The guests of honor will be the crew who went to Philadelphia on July 4, to row in the regatta in that city.

Harry Howard has direction of boxing, wrestling and other sports.

GIRL ESCAPES DEATH

3 TIMES; IS INJURED

NEW YORK, July 2.—Falling from an elevated railway platform onto the tracks just as a train roared into the station and thence to the street thirty-five below, nine-year-old Anna Cunningham escaped yesterday with only minor injuries.

As the little girl rolled from the elevated tracks, her fall was partly broken by an electric fence wire, which was insulated and failed to injure her. She struck the pavement below, landing on her back, and lost her breath and three teeth, but beyond this and a lacerated side was uninjured.

Upon investigation it was found there was an opening but two feet wide through which the girl fell and escaped from the wheels of the train.

SAUL'S ADDITION

Close to 14th Street
Immediate Possession

Detached home of nine rooms and bath. Large, airy rooms with living room entire width of house. Lot 40 by 150 feet to paved alley. Hot-water heat, electricity. Large garage. Home in excellent condition. Immediate possession. Price and terms on application. EXCLUSIVE AGENTS.

This is one of the many offerings advertised in the Classified Adv. Section of today's Washington Times under "For Sale Houses" columns.

HOUSES FOR SALE
SPECIAL TODAY

Fresh From Paris

PARIS, France.

IT is to Longchamps one must hasten if one would see a wide variety of the season's smartest frocks and tailcoats. In this one-piece white crepe de chine frock, blonde lace, which assumes an important role in the midsummer costume, adapts itself gracefully to the cape mode, forming a wing sleeve and falling in a round point below the waistline at the back. In the front the lace is used as a fichu and extends in a jabot drapery down one side of the skirt, falling below the skirt edge. The black crepe tricorn has streams of uncurled ostrich at each side of the back.

THE open sleeves of the black Canton crepe gown at the right are modern interpretations of the old slashed sleeves, which, however, were less appealing, because they were always worn over long, tight inner sleeves. Lanvin and Rolande are among the couturiers who have shown interesting modern adaptations of the slashed sleeve. These flowing lines are further carried out in the bloused bodice of this chemise frock and in the long, slim overskirt that falls in points at each side front. White crepe ribbon, embroidered with black dots, is used here and there as a trimming. The dashing white crepe hat has its brim slit and a white rose with silver foliage is inserted.

Some were in poor condition. Some were in very bad condition. Labor was of many different kinds in different parts of the country. In one place track labor would be native, in another negro, in another Mexican, Italian, Japanese.

Therefore, the Government agreed with the railroads on a straight money test, closed to wild claims, and it is that test that the railroad men are trying to confuse so as to rush in endless fake claims.

They try, as the Railroad Administration shows, to support their sweeping claims "merely by offering figures which are themselves pure assertions as to the time required for certain selected operations at a particular shop of a single railroad at some time during the test period and at some time during Federal control.

The railroad attorneys, as the Government says, "do not try to show even as to these figures by what method they were produced, or how the comparison attempted is proposed to be justified."

It is considerable nerve. As the Railroad Administration says, the railroads have no records on which to base their guesses. They gladly reduce the work done by the Government by about 40 per cent. With equal gaudy they trifle with the few real records there are.

For example, in one case an increase is shown of 12.4 per cent. They juggle the figures to try to show an increase of 142.2 per cent.

The rest of this tale of infinite nerve I shall tell tomorrow.

PARIS REVIVING OLD

DRAMATIC CLASSICS

PARIS, July 2.—The good old melodramatic play with music is once more moving the Parisian heart. Victor Hugo's "Les Misérables," that novel of love, pathos and tragedy, arranged for the stage by Paul Meurice and Charles Hugo, with music by André Wormser—a composer of some distinction, by the way, among whose various dramatic works the three-act pantomime "L'Enfant prodigue" is the best known—is meeting with success at the Odéon.

Wormser's music is admirably suited to the various situations, and adds to the attraction of the piece. Before the war, so it is said, the students of the Quartier gathered mushrooms in the deserted corridors of the Odéon, but now, subventioned by the State, the old playhouse is crowded by audiences who delight in programs of blood and thunder and melodramatic pathos.

Some were in poor condition. Some were in very bad condition. Labor was of many different kinds in different parts of the country. In one place track labor would be native, in another negro, in another Mexican, Italian, Japanese.

Therefore, the Government agreed with the railroads on a straight money test, closed to wild claims, and it is that test that the railroad men are trying to confuse so as to rush in endless fake claims.

They try, as the Railroad Administration shows, to support their sweeping claims "merely by offering figures which are themselves pure assertions as to the time required for certain selected operations at a particular shop of a single railroad at some time during the test period and at some time during Federal control.

The railroad attorneys, as the Government says, "do not try to show even as to these figures by what method they were produced, or how the comparison attempted is proposed to be justified."

It is considerable nerve. As the Railroad Administration says, the railroads have no records on which to base their guesses. They gladly reduce the work done by the Government by about 40 per cent. With equal gaudy they trifle with the few real records there are.

For example, in one case an increase is shown of 12.4 per cent. They juggle the figures to try to show an increase of 142.2 per cent.

The rest of this tale of infinite nerve I shall tell tomorrow.

7,000 COKE WORKERS GET

10 PER CENT WAGE CUT

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 2.—Approximately 7,000 coke workers in the independent plants of the Connells-ville coke region were affected yesterday by a 10 per cent reduction in wages, the second announced this year.

The new rate is about 33 1-3 per cent below the rate paid January 1, but according to coke men some 45 per cent higher than the prevailing rate in 1921. Only about 7 per cent of the independent ovens are in operation.

On June 17 it was reported from London that the Pechahontas had arrived at St. Michaels, the Azores, with engine and boiler trouble and would be detained about five days.

On June 17 it was reported from London that the Pechahontas had arrived at St. Michaels, the Azores, with engine and boiler trouble and would be detained about five days.

On June 17 it was reported from London that the Pechahontas had arrived at St. Michaels, the Azores, with engine and boiler trouble and would be detained about five days.

On June 17 it was reported from London that the Pechahontas had arrived at St. Michaels, the Azores, with engine and boiler trouble and would be detained about five days.

On June 17 it was reported from London that the Pechahontas had arrived at St. Michaels, the Azores, with engine and boiler trouble and would be detained about five days.

On June 17 it was reported from London that the Pechahontas had arrived at St. Michaels, the Azores, with engine and boiler trouble and would be detained about five days.

RAIL STRIKE OVER PAY CUT UNLIKELY, HAPGOOD BELIEVES

Writer Confident Men Won't Injure Public, but Will Seek Aid of Congress.

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.

Things are about to happen in the railroad situation. The decision about the wage awards at Chicago will, I think, be against a strike. The railroad men now are in a position to be the poorest of the poor.

The diplomatic procedure would be to protest against a policy of making labor pay for the stupidity of the railroad men, but to expect a generous willingness, to save the public from the disasters of a strike at this critical moment.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employees are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

ROCKEFELLER WINS FORD FOR $15 ON 13TH CARD

GREENWICH, Conn., July 2.—In the carnival of Greenwich Post, Amherst region, just closed, it has been announced that the winner of the Ford sedan automobile was William G. Rockefeller, son of William Rockefeller. It was the thirteenth number drawn which had Mr. Rockefeller's name on the card. The car cost him about $15. By a peculiar coincidence Mrs. Benjamin Strong, daughter of the late E. C. Converse, another prominent resident, was the winner of the Ford sedan car given at the Venetian fête on the estate of the late Commodore E. C. Benedict.

Mr. Rockefeller is out of town, but the car has been taken to his garage. Just what he will do with his new Henry will not be known until his return.

Births, Deaths, Marriages

Phone Main 5260 Until 2

P. M. Obituary Desk

MISS MARY MALLON.

Funeral services for Miss Mary Mallon, who died yesterday at Garfield Hospital, will be held tomorrow morning at Zurhorst's undertaking establishment, 301 East Capitol street. Water masses will be celebrated at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Miss Mallon is survived by two nieces, Mrs. Lela A. Oothoudt, of Takoma Park, and Miss Winifred Mallon, of 431 New Jersey avenue southeast.

BENJAMIN F. LEIGHTON.

Benjamin Farnsworth Leighton, a former president of the District Bar Association, died last night at his home, 1715 Twenty-second street northwest. Mr. Leighton was one of the leading figures in District banking circles.

He was born at Pembroke, Mass., November 1, 1847. At the age of seventeen he enlisted in the Union army and later became a member of Burnside Post, G. A. R.

He was for years a director of the Columbia National Bank and acted as its legal counsel. The organizer of the Columbia Title Insurance Company, in 1887, he served on its board of trustees up to the time of his death. He was vice president of the People's Fire Insurance Company.

He was elected a member of the board of directors of the American University upon the founding of that institution in 1893, and was later elected president of the board. Last year, because of his failing health, he was named president emeritus.

For forty years he was dean of the law department of Howard University and was an active member of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was also a trustee of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

Surviving Mr. Leighton are his widow, Mrs. Sarah Adams Leighton; three sisters, Mrs. James Buck, of Buckfield, Mass.; Mrs. Sara L. Underwood, of Kennebunk, Me.; and Mrs. Fannie Berry, of Bingham, Me.; a brother, Charles E. Leighton, of Meadmont, Me.; and a niece, Miss Alva Littlefield, of Boston.

For forty years he was dean of the law department of Howard University and was an active member of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was also a trustee of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

Surviving Mr. Leighton are his widow, Mrs. Sarah Adams Leighton; three sisters, Mrs. James Buck, of Buckfield, Mass.; Mrs. Sara L. Underwood, of Kennebunk, Me.; and Mrs. Fannie Berry, of Bingham, Me.; a brother, Charles E. Leighton, of Meadmont, Me.; and a niece, Miss Alva Littlefield, of Boston.

For forty years he was dean of the law department of Howard University and was an active member of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was also a trustee of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

Surviving Mr. Leighton are his widow, Mrs. Sarah Adams Leighton; three sisters, Mrs. James Buck, of Buckfield, Mass.; Mrs. Sara L. Underwood, of Kennebunk, Me.; and Mrs. Fannie Berry, of Bingham, Me.; a brother, Charles E. Leighton, of Meadmont, Me.; and a niece, Miss Alva Littlefield, of Boston.

For forty years he was dean of the law department of Howard University and was an active member of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was also a trustee of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

Surviving Mr. Leighton are his widow, Mrs. Sarah Adams Leighton; three sisters, Mrs. James Buck, of Buckfield, Mass.; Mrs. Sara L. Underwood, of Kennebunk, Me.; and Mrs. Fannie Berry, of Bingham, Me.; a brother, Charles E. Leighton, of Meadmont, Me.; and a niece, Miss Alva Littlefield, of Boston.

For forty years he was dean of the law department of Howard University and was an active member of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was also a trustee of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

Surviving Mr. Leighton are his widow, Mrs. Sarah Adams Leighton; three sisters, Mrs. James Buck, of Buckfield, Mass.; Mrs. Sara L. Underwood, of Kennebunk, Me.; and Mrs. Fannie Berry, of Bingham, Me.; a brother, Charles E. Leighton, of Meadmont, Me.; and a niece, Miss Alva Littlefield, of Boston.

For forty years he was dean of the law department of Howard University and was an active member of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was also a trustee of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

Surviving Mr. Leighton are his widow, Mrs. Sarah Adams Leighton; three sisters, Mrs. James Buck, of Buckfield, Mass.; Mrs. Sara L. Underwood, of Kennebunk, Me.; and Mrs. Fannie Berry, of Bingham, Me.; a brother, Charles E. Leighton, of Meadmont, Me.; and a niece, Miss Alva Littlefield, of Boston.

For forty years he was dean of the law department of Howard University and was an active member of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was also a trustee of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

Surviving Mr. Leighton are his widow, Mrs. Sarah Adams Leighton; three sisters, Mrs. James Buck, of Buckfield, Mass.; Mrs. Sara L. Underwood, of Kennebunk, Me.; and Mrs. Fannie Berry, of Bingham, Me.; a brother, Charles E. Leighton, of Meadmont, Me.; and a niece, Miss Alva Littlefield, of Boston.

For forty years he was dean of the law department of Howard University and was an active member of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was also a trustee of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

Surviving Mr. Leighton are his widow, Mrs. Sarah Adams Leighton; three sisters, Mrs. James Buck, of Buckfield, Mass.; Mrs. Sara L. Underwood, of Kennebunk, Me.; and Mrs. Fannie Berry, of Bingham, Me.; a brother, Charles E. Leighton, of Meadmont, Me.; and a niece, Miss Alva Littlefield, of Boston.

For forty years he was dean of the law department of Howard University and was an active member of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was also a trustee of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

Surviving Mr. Leighton are his widow, Mrs. Sarah Adams Leighton; three sisters, Mrs. James Buck, of Buckfield, Mass.; Mrs. Sara L. Underwood, of Kennebunk, Me.; and Mrs. Fannie Berry, of Bingham, Me.; a brother, Charles E. Leighton, of Meadmont, Me.; and a niece, Miss Alva Littlefield, of Boston.

For forty years he was dean of the law department of Howard University and was an active member of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was also a trustee of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

Surviving Mr. Leighton are his widow, Mrs. Sarah Adams Leighton; three sisters, Mrs. James Buck, of Buckfield, Mass.; Mrs. Sara L. Underwood, of Kennebunk, Me.; and Mrs. Fannie Berry, of Bingham, Me.; a brother, Charles E. Leighton, of Meadmont, Me.; and a niece, Miss Alva Littlefield, of Boston.

For forty years he was dean of the law department of Howard University and was an active member of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was also a trustee of the Washington City Orphan Asylum.

Open Saturdays
During July
and August Unfil
3 P. M.

Where Satisfaction Is Guaranteed or MONEY BACK

The Event

A Big Special Purchase

The Goods

Men's Worsted Suits

The Make

Hart Schaffner & Marx

The Value

Made to Sell for $60 & $65

The Price

$39.50

The Place

Raleigh Haberdasher